

ECHOES OF THE PAST

Thereafter, Frankie backed by the Concepts, who by this time had evolved into the Styles, shed that cocoon to mature into the 5 Classics, recording I Will Wait For You which was produced by Johnny Madera and Dave White (Danny & Juniors) at United Recording Studio, but it never saw the light of day. Into this grim tableau pops a singer with prodigious pipes, Sal Dupree (aka Sal Rickland), who eventually usurps Frankie's old spot. Later, Sal, recognized as a stand-up guy in the biz as owner of Dupree Productions, gained international fame for unearthing astounding talent in song, dance, and stage. This will probably inflame the body politic, but there are some who dare say Sal Dupree possessed the most glorious voice in the entire Delaware Valley, dwarfing most of the stars he promoted. So that's the name of that tune.

The Chaps

Celebrity Photo Quiz

Dean Randolph

Shindig Bound?

Talent & Looks